ARTS CLUB WELCOMES NEW CHAIR TO BOARD OF DIRECTORS

VANCOUVER, B.C.—The Arts Club Theatre Company welcomes Richard Bell as Chair of its Board of Directors. Under the guidance of Mr. Bell and Immediate Past Chair Bruce Flexman, the board provides governance to steer the not-for-profit company's operations and ensure a solid financial base for producing shows for three venues and a provincial tour, deepening its vibrant play commissioning program, and developing education initiatives.

Mr. Bell has a long history in the practice of real estate, wills, and estate planning. He founded his company, Bell Alliance, with the goal of creating a paperless law firm and has been recognized by Adobe as one of the leading minds behind the paperless model. He also co-founded Yongle Technologies Inc., which completely eliminates paper from the presale process for multi-family projects.

In addition to sitting on the Arts Club's board, Mr. Bell is an active supporter of World Housing, a charity that provides homes for families living in slums in the developing world. His outstanding contributions and service to the community saw Bell Alliance as a finalist for a Vancouver Board of Trade Spirit of Vancouver Award.

The Arts Club's Executive Director, Peter Cathie White, says, "Richard has been not only an engaged board member, but also a longtime corporate sponsor of the Arts Club. I am excited to work with him on the company's strategic priorities and furthering our work in planned-giving donations, an area of expertise for Richard."

On the Arts Club's coming change in leadership, Artistic Managing Director Bill Millerd says, "I'd like to thank Richard and Bruce Flexman for their extraordinary contributions during this time of transition. I would also like to acknowledge the team of board members on the whole. I am grateful for the time and energy they bring to our company as we continue to focus on new developments."

Incoming Artistic Director Ashlie Corcoran adds, "I'm excited to work with Richard, and the board as a whole, as I step into this new role at the Arts Club. They are a dynamic group, and I'm thrilled to collaborate with them all." Corcoran will take over the company's artistic leadership at the end of February.
